This is a highly detailed black and white line drawing of a mandala. The design is perfectly symmetrical, both horizontally and vertically. At the center is a circular motif resembling a stylized wheel or a flower with eight spokes. Surrounding this central element are numerous concentric layers of intricate patterns. These layers include a variety of geometric shapes such as triangles, squares, diamonds, and circles, as well as more organic, flowing lines that create a sense of movement and depth. The overall effect is one of a complex, harmonious, and visually rich composition, typical of traditional mandala art used for meditation or as a decorative background.
